ORLANDO, Fla. – SunRail will operate special weeknight train service for Hamilton at the Dr. Phillips Center in Downtown Orlando.

An additional SunRail train will run northbound from Church Street Station at 11 p.m. on weeknights beginning September 29, 2026, through October 16, 2026, for a total of 12 weeknights. This service is in addition to the regularly scheduled 11:01 p.m. southbound train.

Regular fares apply. Service does not include weekend shows.

The SunRail Church Street Station is a simple 5-minute walk to the Dr. Phillips Center. Riders are reminded that the north and southbound platforms are located directly opposite each other at South Street, and pedestrian crosswalks make them easily accessible.

The special service, provided by Alstom, will provide theatergoers with an additional transportation option to attend the acclaimed musical while enjoying a convenient, reliable alternative to driving and parking downtown.

SunRail riders are encouraged to use this later train to also explore additional cultural, educational, and economic opportunities available during this period of special service. With SunRail's trip planner, available through the SunRail Mobile Ticketing app and at www.SunRail.com, riders have easy access to schedules, fares, and much more information.
